Burlington Extension Probabilities.

It is now known that during the past summer the Burlington made two surveys, connecting two Kansas lines of the road with the main line to Denver. The surveys made connect Oberlin, the terminus of the line from Republican running into Kansas, with Atwood, on General Foreman Fuller went home, the St. Francis line. The other survey connects St. Francis with Haigler, in the southeast corner of the state, on the main line of the Burlington to Denver. turned, close of last week, from their The two lines would thus be connected wedding trip through the west and with the main line to the west, as they are now connected on the east. These The enginemen have been placed in a surveys would involve fifty-five miles of pool. It is stated that the trainmen are railroad building, would give the Burcan City and Haigler, would make it There were three No. 3s on Tuesday possible to detour traffic in flood time and during wreck troubles, and would lessen the possibility of congestion of une. business on the McCook division.

> One of the main reasons for connecting these lines on the west is that a great deal of stock and grain from the two Kansas branches is now shipped to the west, and this must be sent east to the junction with the main line. The building would be a benefit to Denver jobbers and a detriment to Lincoln jobbers.

Another survey made years ago, and partly graded at the time, connects Imperial in Chase county with Holyoke on the Cheyenne line of the road.

It is known that a surveying party worked several weeks during the summer on the matter of connecting the two Kansas branches on the west with the main line, and that the line from St. Francis to Hargler presents engineering difficulties of some magnitude. Director Perkins of the Burlington owns a big ranch near St. Francis.-Lincoln

Owing to the strenuous times experienced on the Sheridan division Road Foremen Benedict and Fitzpatrick of the Alliance division, and Road Foreman Newton of the Sterling division have been called to Sheridan to assist in clearing the blockade, to keep tab on the new engineers and firemen recently employed, and to see that the best results are obtained from the engines, which are being overworked.—Alliance Herald.

The rumor that telegraphers and station agents on the Burlington have received an increase of ten dollars per month in pay is not considered. It is said that some adjustment of wage matters has been arranged with telegraphers. but that no such "horizontal increase" has been granted .- State Journal.

Rumored Change at Aurora.

There have been persistent rumors during the past few weeks of the resignation of Assistant Superintendent Frank Harris at Aurora, Nebraska, and the following special telegram from there gives the rumor additional credence. This resignation almost clears the slate of the last remnant of the "Campbell regime:"

Aurora, Neb , Oct. 26 - It is rumored that Assistant Superintendent Harris of the Lincoln division with head will soon be succeeded by Trainmaster Bracken from the Wymore division.

SUCCESSOR IS NAMED Tecumseh, Neb., Oct. 26.-E. P. Bracken, who has been coadmaster of the Burlington, with headquarters at Peter Daly, a husky young fireman Table Rock for some time, has been promoted to be assistant superiore dent of the Lincoln division. He will move his family from Table R ck to Lincoln

Cross Eyed Angels.

Near the village of Monterey, Mass., in the heart of the Berkshires, on a knoll peculiarly well fashioned by nature for its uses, is a burying ground of the Revolutionary period which possesses more than ordinary interest by reason of its well preserved headstones. These headstones were cut from a native stone which has endured the elements so well for more than a hundred years that the inscriptions are now almost as easily read as they were when the stones were set in position. A striking peculiarity is found in the carvings on the headstones, apparently all the work of one sculptor, who had a specialty in the creation of cross eyed angels. Almost every one of the old headstones is ornamented at the top with the head of an angel, and each angel face is unmistakably and painfully cross eyed. This characteristic has led some guests near the burying ground to call it the "cemetery of cross eyed angels."-New York Trib-

Cooking Fish In Clay.

"The natives of the north woods have more appetizing ways to cook fish than any other class of cooks in the world, I believe," said a Tomah

Old Time Advice to Travelers.

Edward Leigh's "Hints For Travelers" was published at the end of the sixteenth century. Only those who speak Latin should travel, he says, and every one should be well grounded "in Cook. Inquire at once of Agent Scott, the true religion" lest he be perverted abroad. Travelers should know their own country before being allowed to leave it. Before his voyage the traveler "should make his peace with God, re-McConnell's spices make good appetites. ceive the Lord's supper, satisfy his creditors if he be in debt, pray earnest-Heating stoves at all prices and of the ly to God to prosper him on his voyage and to keep him from danger, and he Halloween passed without any extra- order all his affairs, since many that go drive them away. 35 cents. abroad return not home."

The Roman Bride Cake.

Bride cake is a relic of the Roman Confarreates, a mode of marriage practiced by the highest class in Rome. In Confarreation the bride was led to the altar by bachelors, but conducted home by married men, and the ceremony took place in the presence of ten witnesses by the Pontifex Maximus, whereupon the contracting parties mutually partook of a cake made of salt, water and flour. Only those who were born in such wedlock were eligible for the high sacred offices. But the cusquarters here, has resigned and that he tom of breaking a cake over the bride's head when she enters her husband's house is borrowed from the Greeks, who as an emblem of future plenty poured figs and other fruits over the heads of both bride and bride-

Pockets In Their Checks. Chipmunks, squirrels and ground squirrels take food in their mouths and with their tongues push it out between the teeth into an elastic pouch (connecting with the mouth), thus extending the cheeks. The pocket gophers have pockets outside the mouth along the front of the cheeks. These pockets extend back under the skin to the shoul ders and are filled and emptied by the aid of the fore feet and claws. They are often stuffed so full of pieces of roots, stems and leaves as to give a very ludicrous appearance to the litt. animal. Roots and stems are cut into pieces about an inch long and packed lengthwise. Leaves are folded or rolled to fill the smallest space.-St. Nicholas.

Whittier's Good Wishes.

A young woman once sat at a boarding house table beside a reserved and awkward country boy whom she delighted to tease. When she left she asked him to write in her autograph album. The poem which John G. Whittier wrote there stands as a warning to other young ladies that she who laughs first at a seemingly dumb countryman may be herself laughed at many years later.
